Since 1982, Barbican has built its internationally renowned reputation around its award-winning arts programme. Indeed some of the world's most memorable performances have taken place on its stages.

Built as a combined arts and conference centre it boasts a hugely experienced management and technical team to support and help plan every event, performance or exhibition.

This amazingly diverse centre offers, state-of-the-art multi-media functionality, including data projection, video conferencing, satellite links and the sound and lighting quality you would expect from the premier stage for the performing arts.

It is a total solution that provides clients with a unique blend of people, ability and resources; there is no more powerful combination to ensure success.

Stylish, spacious and contemporary, it offers unrivalled excellence in caring for the client's every need, whether an event is a meeting for just five or a conference for almost two thousand delegates. From a small conference room, dedicated boardroom and three presentation cinemas, to the famous Barbican Hall and Theatre which are the ultimate in venues.

Existing clients number among them many blue chip companies who return year on year with their guests to be inspired, captivated and motivated by the experience.

The experience that is, uniquely, Barbican.

The world-renowned Barbican Theatre, (equipped with the highest fly-tower in Europe and a fourteen metre lorry lift) is ideal for large-scale events.

The auditorium has generous leg room and the three circles above the raked stalls overhang one another to achieve an all-embracing relationship between audience and speaker.

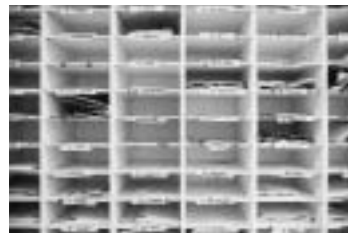

The three presentation cinemas have purpose built projection rooms, simultaneous translation booths and include the service of a dedicated technician.

Two large flat-floored suites with sound-proof partition walls sub-divide into six smaller rooms accommodating ten to one hundred and seventy delegates, together with a dedicated boardroom with comfortable leather chairs.

Practicality and creativity are blended to craft imaginative dishes of the highest quality

The spectacular Conservatory (a lush tropical oasis that is home to finches, quails, exotic fish and over two thousand species of tropical plants and trees) is a splendid venue for private parties and corporate entertainment.

Elegant dining rooms offering wonderful views of the conservatory make a worthy backdrop to any occasion.
